William Morrow Paperbacks. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 384 pages. In combat, men measure up. Or dont. There are no second chances. In this vivid account of the U. S. Armys legendary 10th Mountain Divisions heroic stand in the mountains of Afghanistan, Captain Sean Parnell shares an action-packed and highly emotional true story of triumph, tragedy, and the extraordinary bonds forged in battle. At twenty-four years of age, U. S. Army Ranger Sean Parnell was named commander of a forty-man elite infantry platoon and 151;a unit that came to be known as the Outlaws and 151;and was tasked with rooting out Pakistan-based insurgents from a mountain valley along Afghanistans eastern frontier. Parnell and his men assumed they would be facing a ragtag bunch of civilians, but in May 2006 what started out as a routine patrol through the lower mountains of the Hindu Kush became a brutal ambush. Barely surviving the attack, Parnells men now realized that they faced the most professional and seasoned force of light infantry the U. S. Army had encountered since the end of World War II. What followed was sixteen months of close combat, over the course of which the platoon became Parnells family: from Staff Sergeant Greg Greeson, the wise, chain-smoking veteran who never lost his cool; to Specialist Robert Pinholt, a buttoned-down conservative with the heart of a warrior and the mind of an economist; to Staff Sergeant Phil Baldwin, the platoons voice of calm and reason, a man who sacrificed everything following the events of 911 and 151;career, home, financial stability and 151;to serve his country. But the cost of battle was high for these men: Over 80 percent were wounded in action, putting their casualty rate among the highest since Gettysburg, and not all of them made it home. A searing...
